BICTSF Clarification of Ownership to the Title 'FITASC' & Associated 'FITASC' Disciplines Within the United Kingdom

A recent incident where the ownership and use of the title FITASC Sporting has prompted the British International Clay Shooting Federation Ltd (BICTSF) to release the following statement. Within the United Kingdom borders and territories BICTSF has sole ownership of the following clay target shooting disciplines:

FITASC Sporting, FITASC Compak Sporting, Fosse also known as Universal Trench (UT) and Helice formerly known as ZZ.

BICTSF owns title within the UK by means of membership to the organisation known as 'The FITASC' based in Paris France.

BICTSF pays an annual subscription to the FITASC Paris for the afore mentioned disciplines that gives the right for British citizens to compete in International events, where so ever they may be held globally, on the provision that BICTSF remains a member to 'The FITASC'

BICTSF also holds authority within the UK borders and territories only to permit and authorise shooting grounds, event managers and individuals to hold, organise and advertise said disciplines using the term FITASC.

BICTSF wish it to be known that there are no changes to current authorisation issued to organisations, grounds and individuals that currently use or advertise within the UK borders and territories under the banner FITASC.

However, new grounds, event managers and individuals considering using the term FITASC in their promotion of events or advertising such events including web sites incorporating the term FITASC must in the first instance contact BICTSF for authorisation.

Request for authorisation currently attract no charge and are to be addressed in the first instance to:

Chairman BICTSF
